FROM DEAN HOWARD CHAPMAN

Code of Conduct Amendment

Proposed amendments to the Code of Conduct were published in the September 25, 1995 Record for student comment. Several students expressed concern to members of the faculty and the administration about some of the proposed standards of conduct. Faculty members are also critical of some of the standards. However, as IIT students, law students are already subject to the standards of conduct which were promulgated by IIT and appear on page 75 of the Kent Student Handbook. Therefore the faculty felt it was necessary to approve the amendments to bring alleged violations within the jurisdiction of the law school and to provide law students with the procedural safeguards set forth in the Chicago-Kent Code of Conduct. The amendments were approved by the faculty on October 17, 1995 and are attached to this Record. The faculty directed the Academic Standards Committee to consider the student and faculty comments, study the standards and propose changes for faculty and student consideration. The proposed changes will be distributed to students for comment before final passage.

The preliminary class schedule for the spring semester will be distributed this week outside the third floor cafeteria. You may e-mail comments and suggestions about the schedule to me before November 1 or attend one of the meetings. The Registration Bulletin with the final version of the schedule and registration instructions will be distributed by Tuesday, November 6. Judicial Clerkships

Judicial Clerkships: An Informational Program--Special Attention to 1997 Graduates

A special program on the value of a judicial clerkship as an entry level career opportunity will take place on Wednesday, October 25 at 5:00 p.m. in the auditorium. Judicial clerkships are post-graduation full-time positions on the staff of a judge. Most federal judges hire clerks 12 to 18 months before employment starts; state judges hire clerks 1 to 12 months before employment starts.

Chicago-Kent professors Susan Adams, Michele Baker Richardson and Richard Warner will discuss the responsibilities of clerks, the advantages of a judicial clerkship, and the application and selection process. Professor Vivien Gross will discuss the Faculty Judicial Clerkship Committee and its advisory role.

All students, including first year students, are invited to attend the program. However, our experience has shown that most clerkships are awarded to students in the top third of their class. Students graduating in 1997 are particularly urged to attend because applications to most federal and some state judges for 1997 clerkships need to be made in early spring of 1996.

1996 & 1997 Graduates Seeking Judicial Clerkships

All 1996 and 1997 graduates who seek counseling on judicial clerkship opportunities by a member of the Faculty Judicial Clerkship Advisory Committee need to pick up the committee's materials in the Career Services Office. It is the purpose of the Faculty Judicial Clerkship Advisory Committee to assist Chicago-

Kent students in obtaining clerkships by counseling on strategies for seeking a clerkship. Students wishing to receive faculty counseling must submit the information packet by Thursday, November 9 at 7:00 p.m. in the Career Services Office.

NEWS FROM THE CLC (CENTER FOR LAW AND COMPUTERS)

Courtroom Animation

On Wednesday, October 25, 1995, from 7:35-9:30 p.m., Michael Warnecke of Keck, Mahin and Cate will demonstrate his use of courtroom animation on behalf of the plaintiff in the 1990 trade secret case between Rockwell Graphic Systems, Inc. and DEV Industries, Inc. . The case involved a claim that the defendants had stolen a trade secret involving the design and production of printing presses and printing press parts.

Mr. Warnecke developed a computer animation of a printing press roller, the design of which was the subject of the case, which he used as demonstrative evidence at the trial before Judge Williams. Mike will join the Computer Law Class to discuss some of the legal issues involved in using this type of evidence. Students and faculty are welcome to join us.

Where Should I Print?

All students are required to print LEXIS/NEXIS, WESTLAW, or LOIS documents to the Document Center rather than to the laser printers in the computer labs. All other printing can go to the laser printers in the labs. LEXIS/NEXIS, WESTLAW, and LOIS documents are charged at the current rate set by the Information Center.

Remember, you can check your current printing balance at any time. Look under KENTNET NETWORK SERVICES | FALL 1995 STUDENT PRINTER ACCOUNT BALANCES. Each student has an allowance of 400 free pages for the Fall, 1995 semester. The free pages can not be used for LEXIS/NEXIS, WESTLAW, or LOIS documents.

Email System Upgraded

A new version of ExpressIT! (Chicago-Kent's email package) has been installed for DOS and Windows. Although almost everything is the same, there are a few new features the Center would like you to know about.

1. The OUTBOX! -- Copies of sent messages are now kept in a folder called OUTBOX, instead of the DELETED folder. An unlimited number of messages is available for 7 days; the old DELETED folder held only 50 messages. File attachments are not saved in the OUTBOX. The DELETED folder still holds the mail you delete.
2. At startup and shutdown, the MAIL LOG (where outgoing registered mail is kept) is automatically purged to remove any messages older than 60 days. File attachments are no longer saved in the MAIL LOG folder.
3. From the main menu of any folder, the TAB key pops up a folder list to help you move from folder to folder.

If you have questions about ExpressIT!, contact Leah Moral (LMORAL) or Kristen McQuillin (KMCQUILL).

CHECK IT OUT . . . NEWS FROM THE INFORMATION CENTER

"Partner Down the Hall" Program Announcement

In law practice, often the most efficient and effective place to start a project is with an experienced attorney who can proffer advice and background information. At Chicago-Kent, the attorneys on the Information Center's staff is offering the "Partner Down the Hall" Research Assistance Program.

The purpose of this program is to provide individual assistance to 2nd and 3rd year students in the context of actual written assignments. The staff will be available to assist in analyzing the problem and discussing research strategies.

To make an appointment, please e-mail "PARTNER". Briefly describe the problem you are working on and set out times most convenient for you. Confirmation of your appointment will be made that day.

This Week's Tutorial

Near the Information Center's entrance on the 9th floor is the Pro-Quest database, which abstracts and indexes articles in over 1000 management, marketing, and business journals. It includes over 350 international journals that provide comprehensive coverage of the global marketplace--in English. This week the Reference Staff will be demonstrating this database and discussing its advantages.

The schedule for the tutorials is posted on the 9th floor Information Center bulletin board. Each tutorial will last about 20 minutes, or less. Its not mandatory that you sign up for them; just stop by the Reference Desk at the scheduled times. If you have any comments or suggestions for new topics or re-runs, contact Lenore Glanz (e-mail: LGLANZ). We'd like to hear from you.

Business School Class for Law Firm Partners

The October 9, 1995 Wall Street Journal column, "Lawyers and Clients" reports on a unique business school seminar which teaches business school management techniques to law firm partners. The ideas of a marketing professor that selling legal services is no different from any other commodity business were well received. However partners were uninterested in changing traditional compensation practices, such as paying lawyers for hours billed and didn't want to discuss ways to retain and motivate support staff, whom they view as available in endless supply. Nevertheless, the course has been very popular with those eligible to attend. A copy of the article is on the ninth floor library bulletin board.

FROM THE OFFICE OF ALUMNAE/I & STUDENT RELATIONS

SPECIAL NOTICES

Law Offices - Spring Registration for In-House Programs

SPRING 1996 APPLICATIONS AVAILABLE IN ROOM 600
DUE MONDAY, OCTOBER 30

Students who would like to learn how to practice law while they are in law school should register for the in-house clinical education program, LAW OFFICES. Applications are now available for spring. The spring applications are due October 30.

Students may enroll in Law Offices after they have completed their first year of law school (current first years may not apply for Spring 1996). To be eligible to enroll, ALL students (except LADR students) must complete and return a completed Law Offices application. Applications must be turned in to the Law Offices receptionist in Suite 600 by the deadline.

Students who have taken or are currently taking Law Offices (called Continuing Law Offices Students) and who submit their applications by the due date will be given preference if availability permits. Next, priority will be given to the top ten students on the fall 1995 waiting list who did not turn down a place, who were on the waiting list in the division they have marked as first choice, and who submitted their spring application by the due date. Other new students who have submitted their applications by the due date will be selected in the Law Offices lottery.

The in-house programs are comprised of two components. One is a graded classroom component for one credit. The other is a pass/fail three credit fieldwork component. For the fieldwork component students work in practice groups on client cases or similar projects assigned to them by a supervising attorney. It also includes practice group lectures, supervising attorney conferences, section meetings, and various client interview experiences.

There are six in-house practice groups from which to choose - employment discrimination/civil rights with some general practice, criminal defense, mediation and other ADR procedures, health law, immigration, and tax.

For more information, you may talk to the clinical professors who supervise the various practice groups - Professors Gonzalez (Rm. 629) and Norton (Rm. 623) for employment discrimination/civil rights with some general practice; Professors Kadish (Rm. 613), Kling (Rm. 625), and Thomas (Rm. 609) for criminal defense; Professor Kentra (Rm. 690) for mediation and other ADR procedures; Professors Elster (Room 692) and Toolan (Room 621) for health law; Professor Benítez (Rm. 627) for immigration; and Professor Livingston (Rm. 688) for tax.

Advanced Externship Program Spring, 1996

THIRD YEAR STUDENTS ONLY:

Do you wish to develop your legal skills? Gain practical legal experience in a specialized area of law with a corporation, firm or government agency? Make yourself more marketable to prospective employers upon graduation? If you have answered "yes" to any of the above questions, consider applying for the Advanced Externship Program for Spring Semester 1995.

The Advanced Externship Program is a four credit hour program consisting of a 3 credit hour fieldwork and a 1 credit hour classroom component. The program is open to students in their last two semesters of law school. For the fieldwork component, an extern is placed in a private or public, civil or criminal practice and is required to work a minimum of 15 hours a week at his/her designated placement. Externs interested in civil law may select to work under the supervision of general counsel in major corporations or under the supervision of designated teaching lawyers in well-known firms or specific government agencies. Externs may specialize in such diverse legal areas as tax, commodities, securities, corporate, health care, medical malpractice, and general corporate law, etc. Those interested in criminal law may select to work with designated supervising lawyers at the States Attorney's Office, Public Defender's or the U.S. Attorney's office. Many externships may offer the externs opportunities to obtain a 711 license and appear in court.

The accompanying classroom component consists of a 1 hour class weekly, which focuses on various aspects of today's practice of law and on the externs' fieldwork experiences.

If you are interested in learning more about externship opportunities or in applying for the program, please see Professor Vivien Gross in Room 617.

More information about the program and an accompanying application form are available in the Law Offices Reception Area. Applications must be turned in to Room 612 by 5:00 p.m. on Wednesday, November 1. All applicants must have scheduled and completed an interview with Professor Gross prior to turning in their applications. Slots are limited. In the event applicants outnumber the number of students that can be accepted in the program, students with at least one semester of Law Offices or LADR (Law Alternative Disputes Resolution program) will receive a preference over other students in being admitted in the Externship Program.

CLEMENCY PETITION

Professors Krent and Baker are looking for students interested in working on a Clemency Petition to be filed on behalf of a battered woman serving time in prison. The Petition is due in late winter, but preliminary investigation and research need to start immediately. We would like to offer one hour of Spring Semester credit to those who choose to work with us. Interested students should be mindful of the commitment involved. Investigation may require tracking down and interviewing witnesses, locating police and medical records, and meeting with the client. In addition, drafting and organizing exhibits to the petition can be time-consuming. Those interested should e-mail HKrent or KBaker before October 31. If there is an abundance of interest, we will develop a selection system and a waiting list.

THIS WEEK'S LEXIS QUICK TIP: Legislative history research and insuring you have the most current statutes!

Researching legislative history is a very important skill that all law students should acquire. However, one of the most important things to be aware of when conducting legislative research is the potential to be viewing documents that have been updated by recent legislative activity. LEXIS assists you with this problem by placing a LEXIS LINK MARKER at the beginning of the statute section if there is a recently passed public law that updates the statute you are looking at. You can access the update by activating the link marker or typing in the applicable link command (i.e. = 1)

For those statutes or sections that do not have link markers, you can run a subject search in the PUBLAW library to cover the most recent time period.

Good luck with your research!

Next week on LEXIS Quick Tip: Find out about LEXIS SEGMENTS!

Westlaw

Just a reminder, for those of you who routinely download your documents to a disk and print or look at the documents at home, you can reset your Westlaw default to whatever word processing system you use. For instance, if you routinely use WordPerfect 5.2 at home, you can set your Westlaw default so that it always (or at least until you reset the default) downloads your documents into WordPerfect 5.1 format. This means you won't have to waste your time formatting your downloads to match your word processor's pages. To do this, at the main menu type, options; then hit your page down button; next type in option 16, which allows you to reset your default format for any of several WordPerfect versions, or if you use another word processor, choose option 9, which is a general word processing format.

Natural Language Searching

This type of document searching allows you to retrieve documents by entering a general description of your research issue using standard English. To use this feature, access the appropriate database for your search, then make sure you are searching under Natural Language and not Terms and Connectors (if you are in Terms and Connectors simply select the Natural Language jump marker). Next, type a description of the information you are looking for. Your description should describe the essential issue you are researching. When your search is completed, Westlaw will display the 20 documents most closely matching the concepts in your description (you can set the number of documents received from 1 to 100).

You can also restrict your searches by specifying a particular date, cases decided after a certain date, cases decided by a specific court or judge, or cases in which a specific attorney appeared as counsel. If you have any further questions about natural language searching please contact one of us at the addresses listed below.

Westlaw will send students prizes if they submit a story found on Westlaw and featured in the law student bulletin. Simply submit where the story can be found on Westlaw and your name, address, phone number, and law school, to PBARD @ MCIMAIL.COM.

You can contact either of the student reps by sending an e-mail message to WESTQ. However, if you'd like to contact us personally, the Westlaw student reps are Christine Brown (CBROWN) and Steve Edmonson (SEDMONSO), but also feel free to contact Kent's Westlaw Academic Rep Scott Briley via e-mail (SBRILEY@MCIMAIL.COM) or leave him a voice mail message at (800) 443-3075. Also you can contact the Westlaw Customer Service Reps at (800) WESTLAW or (800) 937-8529, or Westlaw's Reference Attorneys at (800) REF-ATTY or (800) 733-2889, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.
